BENJAMIN WEST,
A. M. A. A. S.

*"As in successive Course the Seasons roll,
So circling Pleasures recreate the Soul."*

*"While Worlds unnumber'd in the spacious Air,
Whirl round their Suns their annual Circles steer:
Sweet Contemplation elevates my Sense,
And I survey the Works of Providence."*

ECLIPSES for the Year 1784.

THERE will be Four Eclipses this Year, Two of the Sun and Two of the Moon.

The First will be of the Sun the 20th Day of February, at 3h. 40m. Afternoon, apparent Time; in 175 1° 56'. D's Lat. 41' South. The Eclipse will be Central, at 12 o'Clock, in Longitude 119° West from the Meridian of Greenwich Observatory, in England, and in Lat. 60° South.—To us invisible.

The Second will be a visible Eclipse of the Moon, the 6th Day of March, in the Evening, as follows,

		h	m
Beginning	-	9	31 $\frac{1}{2}$	} Ap. Time
Middle	-	10	43
End	-	11	54 $\frac{1}{2}$
Duration	-	2	23

Digits eclipsed, 4° 36' on the D's North Limb.

The Third will be of the Sun, the 15th Day of August, at 7h. 33m. in the Evening, invisible; the δ will be in 4s 23° 40'; D's Lat. 37' North. The central Eclipse will be on the Meridian, in Longitude 177° West from Greenwich, and in Lat. 62° $\frac{1}{2}$ North.

The Fourth will be of the Moon, the 30th Day of August, at 12 o'Clock, therefore invisible to us. The Quantity of the Eclipse will be a little more than 8 Digits, on the South Limb.

It may be further remarked, that there will be a Conjunction of Υ and δ the 15th Day of January, when δ will pass by Υ no more than 59' to the South of him; both Planets will be direct in their Motion. There will likewise be a δ of Υ and δ the 9th of March, and δ will pass by Υ 19' to the South; both Planets direct.

• The Prayer of a wise Heathen.

GREAT Love, this one petition grant;
(Thou knowest best what mortals want :)
Ask'd, or unask'd what's good supply ;
What's evil to our prayers deny !

J E S T S.

WHEN Lord Chesham's Letters were published, a Gentleman asked Doctor Johnson, whether they did not contain great Knowledge of the World ? O yes, Sir, says Johnson, very much so ; they inculcate the Morals of a Whore, and the Manners of a Dancing-master.

Henry IV. of France, reading the following ostentatious Inscription on the Monument of a Spanish Officer; "Here lies the Body of Don, &c. &c. who never knew what Fear was" Then, says the King, he never touch'd a Candle with his Fingers.

An Officer in Minorca was found by a Gentleman, who came to visit him in a Morning, a little rusted, and being asked the Reason, he replied, that he had put a Pair of fine Black Silk Stockings out of his Room, that cost him Eighteen Shillings ; but he hoped he should get them again, for he had ordered them to be cried, with a Reward of Half a Crown for the Person who brought them. His Friend observing, that this was too poor a Recompence for such a Pair of Silk Stockings : Pray, Ma'am, replied he, I directed the Crier to say they were Washed.

A Countryman sowing his Field, and two smart Fellows riding by, one of 'em call'd to him with an insolent Air ; Well, honest Countryman, it is your Business to sow, but we reap the Fruits of your Labour. To which the Farmer replied, It is certainly you may, for truly I am sowing Hemp.

A Gentleman seeing Beau Nash go out very finely dressed, after the mutual Compliments, asked where he was going ? Going ! says Nash, why, I am going to advertise. What ? says the Gentleman. Buy myself, quoth Nash, for that's the only Use of a fine Coat.

The Miser and the Mouse.

AS Pedro stalk'd around his house,
The jealous miser spy'd a mouse:
"How now, cries he, what dost thou here?"
"Sir, says the mouse, dismiss your fear;
"I come not with the bacons of food,
"But for the sake of—salutode."

A remarkable Story of a HERMIT.

A Certain holy Hermit, named Parnie, being upon the road to meet his bishop, who had sent for him, met a lady most magnificently dressed, whose incomparable beauty drew the eyes of every body on her. The saint, having looked at her, and being himself struck with astonishment, immediately burst into tears. Those who were with him wondering to see him weep, demanded the cause of his grief. "I have two reasons, replied he, for my tears; I weep to think how fatal an impression that woman makes on all who behold her; and I am touched with sorrow, when I reflect that I, for my salvation, and to please God, have never taken one tenth part of the pains which this woman has taken to please men alone."

ANECDOTES of the great Marshal TURENNE.

HIS generosity and disinterestedness of Turenne, was upon every occasion manifest. In the campaign of 1673 a general officer proposed to him the means of obtaining the sum of four hundred thousand livres, which at the court being ever able to deliver it. "I am much obliged to you," replied Turenne; "but as I have often had these opportunities, without profiting by them, I do not believe at this time of life, I shall ever alter my conduct."

About the same time the magistrates of a city offered him a hundred thousand crowns not to march over their district. "As," said he, "your city is not in the route which the army is to take, I cannot accept of your money."

The success with which the campaign of 1673 was crowned, secured the general the most grateful reputation at Versailles. Louis XIV. failed not to be-show his commendations on Turenne; and that Prince told him that the marquis S. Abré should serve no longer under him, as he had in his letters to the Minister, condemned some measures taken by Turenne. "Why did he not," said the general, "communicate his opinion to me, I should have availed myself of his advice." He apologized for S. Abré, praised his conduct, and obtained promotion for him.

Rousseau gives us the following anecdote of this general. Once in dog-days, M. Turenne being very warm had stripped himself, and was looking out of his window in the anti-chamber, in a linen waistcoat, and white night-cap. One of the servants coming in, and taking him for an under-cook with whom he was very familiar, came softly up, and with a pretty heavy hand, hit the general a very smart slap upon the breech. He immediately turned about, when the servant perceiving his mistake, fell on his knees, saying "My Lord, I thought it was George." "Well, and if it had been George," said Turenne, rubbing the part aggrieved; "you need not have hit him so cursed hard."

A Clown's Apology to the Doctor.

A S honest Richard, a substantial clown,
 Had brought his corn, one market-day, to town,
 He met the Doctor, who look'd vastly big,
 And sternly frown'd beneath his awful wig.
 The clown, whose heart still ran upon his treasure:
 Thus gaes'd the cause of Syrinx's displeasure:
 "I han't been lately at your shop, quoth Dick;
 "But don't be angry—for I han't been sick."
